Seats still available for April 17 workshop to help businesses manage the generation gap in the workplace

Vancouver, Wash. (April 5, 2018) — To help companies meet the challenges of managing several generations with different expectations and ideas, Workforce Southwest Washington (WSW) is holding a workshop for businesses on April 17 about “Managing the Generation Gap in the Workplace.”

The event will take place 7:45 a.m.-9:30 a.m. at the Ilani Casino Resort, 1 Cowlitz Way, Ridgefield, WA 98642.

Various topics will be addressed, including: defining the generations, stereotypes, strengths of each generation, dispelling myths & finding common ground, building cohesion through a culture of inclusion and first-hand experiences of companies that have successfully managed multiple generations.

There is no cost to attend, however, space is limited and registration is required. To register, go to www.eventbrite.com and search for “Workforce Southwest.”

For assistance or more information about workforce development programs for business, contact Cass Parker at cparker@workforcesw.org or 360.567.1076.

Workshops will be held every other month at different locations in both Clark and Cowlitz counties:

- June – Finding Employees in a tight labor market
- August – Tips & tricks for retaining great workers
- October – When your best workers retire ... what do you do now?

Check WSW’s website www.workforcesw.org for dates and locations.
